RMASFAA LEADERSHIP PIPELINE

Purpose

The RMASFAA Leadership Pipeline, through a strong, structured mentoring program, will foster the development of leadership skills and abilities to support individual growth and to bring forward future leaders for RMASFSAA and state associations.

Objectives

- ❖ Provide training in leadership concepts and techniques.
- ❖ Provide an understanding of RMASFAA issues, the financial aid industry, NASFAA, and Department of Education.
- ❖ Build relationships between people, state associations and RMASFAA
- ❖ Prepare and motivate participants to be involved and to serve in state and RMASFAA associations.
- ❖ Inspire participants to say yes to leadership opportunities.

Description

The RMASFAA Leadership Pipeline will provide both educational and participatory experiences.

The Leadership Pipeline consists of a mentor coaching a “mentee” through the utilization of one-on-one and group meetings via conference calls, web-meeting formats, and sessions at RMASFAA Fall Conference.

Course Outline

October

Leadership Pipeline Seminar

Participants are required to attend the Leadership Pipeline Seminar, which is the official initiation of participation in the program. Mentees attend the Leadership Pipeline Seminar held in conjunction with the RMASFAA Fall Conference in October.

November

Mentor and mentee will schedule a meeting to discuss establishing personal goals. Mentee will write a personal goal statement for use in a personal statement later on.

January

Stress management and taking care of your self is the topic for the busy month of January. Mentors will discuss with mentees effective ways to create plans and utilize techniques to minimize stress.

March

Pipeline members will hold a distance to discuss the politics of financial aid.

May

Pipeline pairs will have a meeting to discuss “passion” in life and in work.

July

The rewards of being a financial aid professional will be the meeting topic of the Pipeline pairs for this month. There are rewards that far exceed the financial aspect.

September

It is a busy time of year, so the meeting this month will address budgeting issues – personal and professional use of time, fiscal resources, relationships, etc. The importance of strategic and long range planning will also be discussed. Mentees will write a summary of their personal leadership philosophy.

Other Assignments

There will be a reading requirement for Leadership Pipeline participants. It is an expectation that mentees will get into the practice of reading for professional growth. There is also a personal goals statement and Leadership Pipeline experience summary writing requirement for all mentees.

Putting It All Together

Fall Conference will include recognition and celebration of mentees and mentors at the Awards Banquet.

A new group of mentees and mentors will be recruited during odd-numbered years; they will begin their journey and be welcomed as mentors and mentees in even numbered years.

Paying it Forward

- We look forward to 20 Leadership Pipeline mentor and mentee pairs in our cohort.
- Individuals will participate their first year as mentees in the Leadership Pipeline program.
- After graduation, it is hoped that mentees will be active participants on committees or serve as officers at the State or RMASFAA level.
- The long term goal is that mentees will participate as mentors or show evidence that they have reached their own personal goals as set out in the original homework at initial session.
